During the quarter ended December 2024, the consolidated quarterly average of monthly HQLAs stood at MUR 3,765.84 Mn against the consolidated quarterly average of monthly estimated net cash outflows of MUR 3,180.92 Mn, thus having LCR of 122.2% on consolidated basis against a current minimum regulatory requirement of 100%.

The main drivers of the net cash outflows are those associated with the bank deposit portfolios, borrowing from other financial institutions and cash inflows are mainly from loan repayments/maturities and from interbank lending to financial institutions. On a quarter basis, though the LCR ratio decreased marginally from 196.62% in September 2024 to 122.27% in December 2024, it stayed comfortably well above the minimum regulatory requirement.

OUTLOOK

According to the latest assessment by the International Monetary Fund (IMF), the global economy is showing early signs of recovery, though progress remains gradual. Despite these positive indicators, the resurgence remains fragile due to ongoing geopolitical tensions, fluctuating commodity prices, and unexpected inflationary pressures. These challenges continue to pose risks to long-term economic stability and growth.

In Mauritius, economic recovery is not only ongoing but gaining strong momentum. This positive trajectory has been driven by well-coordinated policies from both the public and private sectors, aimed at strengthening key economic pillars and enhancing resilience amid global uncertainties. Sectors such as tourism, financial services, and ICT are making significant contributions to national growth, while continued investments in infrastructure and digital transformation further support sustainable economic development.

Against this backdrop, our bank remains committed to achieving its growth objectives. We are focused on leveraging our expanding team of skilled professionals and implementing customer-centric initiatives to enhance market presence. These efforts aim to deepen engagement with existing clients while exploring new opportunities to diversify revenue streams. Our strategic investments in digital solutions, risk management, and sustainable finance are key to positioning us as a dynamic and forward-thinking leader in both local and regional markets.
